Ashley Fiolek

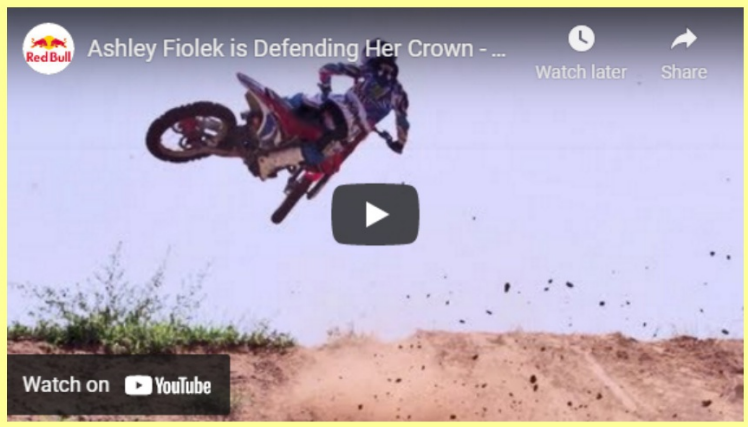

A little girl called Ashley was playing in the kitchen when some pans fell off the table with a massive crash. Ashley didn't turn around. Her mum and dad decided to get her hearing tested. When the results came back, they found out that their daughter was deaf. They learnt sign language and sent Ashley to camp with other deaf children to build up her self-confidence.

Ashley's father and grandfather loved⁵⁷⁰ motorcycles, so they gave her a mini one when she was three. The three of them would go to the woods, each on their own bike.

People told Ashley that being a motorcross racer would be impossible. "Hearing is really important" they said. But Ashley could feel from the engine's vibration when to change gear.

In five years she won four national titles. She fell, many times! She broke her left arm, her right wrist, her right ankle, her collar bone.. but she always recovered and got back on her bike.
