

LO To link ideas within an across paragraphs

1. Sentence one must start with an adverbial of number/time to begin a FOR argument.
2. Sentence two must include a cause and effect adverbial to justify the argument.
3. Sentence three must contain start with 'In addition...' and state another FOR argument.
4. Sentence four must include a cause and effect adverbial to justify the argument.

NEXT PARAGRAPH

5. Sentence one must include an adverbial of contract/comparison to start and AGAINST argument.
6. Sentence four must include a cause and effect adverbial to justify the argument.

Firstly, dogs are incredibly loving and loyal animals. Because of this, humans enjoy the contact they have with them and consider them a part of their family (many people are distraught when their animal's lives come to an end). In addition, dogs can be fiercely protective of their owners. Due to this characteristic, humans that live on their own, or with young children, can feel at peace and may not have fear of trespassers.

On the other hand, dogs can possess a destructive side. Consequently, houses and gardens can become difficult to maintain if there is not enough space for the animal to live.