WINCHESTER

PEREGRINE EGGS HATCH

A pair of peregrine falcons who live at the top of Winchester Cathedral are thought to have had a record number of eggs this year. Winnie and Chester have lived on top of the 900-year-old building for a couple of years. Winnie laid a clutch of five eggs recently, and they have just started to hatch! On 27th April one of the experts keeping track of the pair wrote: “Winnie has hatched her first chick this morning. At 10am she was eating the eggshell – not wanting to waste valuable calcium. The chicks will be carefully guarded and kept warm by her for the first 7-10 days, and then she will leave them to go hunting.” You can see the birds yourself via a live webcam. Peregrines are the world’s fastest animal. When they dive to catch prey, they reach speeds of 200 miles per hour!

MANCHESTER

AEROPLANE MEALS SHARED OUT

Air travel has collapsed because of the coronavirus. With most flights grounded, a “mountain” of frozen meals meant for airline passengers has been growing near Manchester Airport. Now, a group called Open Kitchen MCR has stepped in to rescue the meals and give them to people in need. More than one million meals are going to be given to people in the area who struggle to afford their own food.

CRANES COME BACK

The tallest bird in Britain, the crane, is making a comeback! This spectacular bird can grow to 1.2 metres tall. Cranes were once common in the UK, but they became extinct here about 400 years ago because of hunting and the loss of their habitat. However, the increase in wetland nature reserves means that about 200 cranes are now thought to live in the UK. Chrissie Kelley, from a wildlife group in Norfolk, said: “We are thrilled to see wild cranes doing so well. Seeing these birds in flight is breathtaking.”

FOUR FREED

FOUR big cats that were rescued by the charity Born Free have been released into nature reserves in Ethiopia and South Africa.

Two cheetah cubs have found a new home at a wildlife sanctuary in Ethiopia. It's thought that the cubs were snatched from their mother so that they could be sold illegally as pets in the Middle East. Thankfully, they were rescued just before Ethiopia went into lockdown because of the coronavirus.

In South Africa, two adult leopards have been given a new home at Born Free's big cat wildlife reserve. They were rescued from a zoo in the country where they were being kept in very poor conditions. Mowgli, a black leopard, and Zeiss, a spotted leopard, did not have enough food and were not being checked by vets.

Dr Chris Draper, from Born Free, says: "These are two very different cases, but they highlight the problems with big cats in captivity."

All four of the rescued cats are settling into their new homes, although their recovery back to full health may take some time.

ISLE OF MAN

New stamps on the Isle of Man will celebrate the people working hard to get us through the coronavirus crisis, such as doctors, care workers and delivery drivers. The stamps have the words Care, Community, Love, Science, Compassion, Work, Words and Faith, all finishing the message, "...will carry us through".

UK

Thousands and thousands of bugs have been washed up on a beach in Scarborough. Local people going out for their daily exercise noticed the sea of bugs along Cayton Bay. At first it was thought they were heather beetles, an insect that lives on the local moors. But it's now thought that they are European chafer beetles, from mainland Europe. No-one knows why so many of the bugs have ended up on the beach.

SPORT NEWS

“I’M IN MUM’S BAD BOOKS!”

WHEELCHAIR tennis star Alfie Hewett is one of the sport’s most successful athletes. He talked to First News about his career and how he’s coping with the lockdown.

■ How did you first get into tennis?

When I was seven I was diagnosed with a hip condition called Perthes’ disease. That’s why I came to be in a wheelchair. Obviously to have my life change and be told I had to be in a wheelchair was a struggle.

My mum and my family were big drivers behind getting me back involved with sport. They took me to Stoke Mandeville [a hospital] where anyone with a disability could try various para-sports. It was to get social again... be happy and be active – all those benefits that sport can bring.

■ How have you been keeping active in the lockdown?

I live out in the sticks [far away from towns and cities] in Norfolk, so it’s a peaceful and quiet area to go out for a push. To not have the gym and court on hand means I have to be creative. But I’m in Mum’s bad books because I’ve turned the conservatory into a home gym!

■ As an athlete, what has been the most frustrating thing about the lockdown for you?

I accept the situation... everyone’s in the same boat. I haven’t picked up a racket since the second week of March now. It’s quite strange! But it’s quite good for us as athletes to take the strain off our bodies.

■ You’ve won so much, but what has been the stand-out moment so far?

Playing at the Rio 2016 Paralympics [bottom right] was just unbelievable, a dream come true. To go and play as well as I did and get two medals was unexpected! To look up and see [my family] all there with the flag, it was something I’ll never forget.

Alfie Hewett has two Paralympic silver medals and three Wimbledon doubles titles – and he’s still only 22!
