

It was a dark night and it was raining. The rain was falling fast. Then a bolt of lightning flashed. It showed a building which looked old. The building was a place where Caratacus and his tribe lived. They were rebels against the Romans and they did not like them.

Caratacus was a tall man who was very strong. Everybody looked up to Caratacus and saw him as a leader. Caratacus had led his tribe into lots of battles with the Romans. Caratacus knew that he would soon have a very big battle with the Roman soldiers. Caratacus thought that this battle could be tonight.