

A Time Traveller's Guide to Ancient Greece

Have you ever wondered what life was like in Ancient Greece? Fortunately, we've travelled back in time to find out for you!

Nearly four thousand years ago, in the countries that we now know as Greece, Turkey and Bulgaria, the earliest Greek civilisations prospered. Between 2000BC and 146BC, their dominant empire spread throughout most of Europe, as far as France.

Groovy Greek Government

The Greeks developed a new idea for a government- democracy. As a result, Ancient Greece was split into many different states (territories of land), which were each ruled in their own way. Moreover, each state had its own laws, government and money however they shared the same language and religion. At this time, the two important states in Greece were Athens and Sparta.

Astonishing Alphabets

Amazingly, the Ancient Greeks played a vital part in the development of the alphabet we use today because their alphabet was the first with vowels. Did you know that the first two letters of the Greek alphabet 'alpha' and 'beta' gave us the word alphabet? Unlike our alphabet, the Greek alphabet consisted of unusual symbols such as Γ (gamma) and Δ (delta). Interestingly, this alphabet is still used in Greece today.

The Grand Gods and Goddesses

Religion was important to the Greeks because they believed that it would make their lives better while they were living.

Furthermore, many Greeks believed that the gods would care for them when they died. The Ancient Greeks believed in a large number of influential gods and goddesses, who they believed controlled everything in their lives and the environment.

In addition, the almighty Zeus, whose symbol was a lightning bolt, was known as the ruler of the Greeks and - along with eleven other gods or goddesses - was believed to have lived on Mount Olympus (the highest mountain in the country). Other Greek gods and goddesses included Aphrodite (the goddess of beauty and love), Poseidon (the god of the sea) and Ares (the god of war).

Amazing Architecture

To show the gods how important they were, the Greeks built colossal temples in every town for one god or goddess. The temples, which were not like modern places of worship, were homes for statues of gods, cared for by priests. As a result, religious ceremonies and festivals were held outside the temples. A few of these temples can still be found today around Greece, including The Parthenon (dedicated to the goddess Athena), which can be found in Athens, Greece.
